GOLDEN, LEADER OF TEAMSTERS, IN JAIL FOR A TIME.

Incident Delays Settlement-More Rioting in Stock Yards-Packers Make Deeided Gains-Less Danger of Freight Handlers' Strike-Plants Sanitary.

CHICAGO, July 29.-Probably the biggest sensation of the meat strike to-day was the arrest of George F. Golden, business agent of the Packing House Teamsters' Union and president of the Teamsters' Joint Council. He was taken from his office, locked in a cell and for an hour bail was refused because he issued instructions from his office window to a union driver. Not until nearly all the labor leaders directing the big strike had surrounded the stock yards police station, demanding Golden's release and threatening habeas corpus proceedings, preparations for which were already under way, was Golden He was charged with disorderly conduct and intimidation. In the brief time covered by these developments the pacific attitude of the strike leaders was changed to bitterness.

It was asserted by the labor officials that the strike would be spread as far as possible if for no other reason than to keep the police busy. The change was so apparent that the cool headed leaders who have been directing the strike for the packers themselves deprecated the incident.

When Golden was finally released by Inspector Hunt, the latter issued a verbal manifesto that he would no longer permit strike leaders to issue or disseminate orders to the members of their unions save in their private halls. The labor men declared this equivalent to a declaration of martial law. They said it resembled the attitude taken by the authorities in Colorado.

It soon developed that the whole affair was in reality much ado about nothing. The man Golden is charged with having intimidated Charles Haverty, a union man engaged in conveying union meat for an independent packer enjoying friendly relations with the unions involved in the strike.

Rioting and mob rule broke out to-day in the stockyards district. There were assaults by the dozen. Seven riot calls were turned in at the stockvards station and calls were made on other stations. Policemen detailed on strike duty were hurried from one disturbance to another as fast as they could go.

The strikers and sympathizers, who had been generally quiet up to to-day, seemed to throw restraint to the winds. Non-union teamsters were attacked all through the district. The arrest of Golden angered the men and added to the disorder.

BIG GAINS BY THE PACKERS.

Statisticians who at the end of each week make a comprehensive record for the drovers' organization at the stockyards gave out to-day figures on the work which they said had been accomplished by the packers in the last two weeks. It was found that on an average about 50 per cent. of the regulation output of the big packing plants had been achieved.

plants had been achieved.

This, coming from what is regarded as the best of authorities, tends to disprove claims that have been made from day to day by leaders of the strikers to the effect that little or no work was being done in Peckingtown. Packingtown.

figures also support the average run of statements of the packers' managers themselves, who have insisted that they were putting out a satisfactory amount of product each day.

The receipts of stock to-day were about the same as they have been since the first of the week. Fewer cattle and sheep came of the week. Fewer cattle and sneep came in, but the consignments of hogs were considerably larger than usual.

According to official figures given out by the packing houses to-day in Chicago there were received 8,000 cattle, 14,000 hogs and 8,000 sheep.

Following the action of the live stock and less of the open westerday, when they

While Presi-dent Donnelly and his aide deprecated all such reports, it was apparent that there was good basis for them. Meanwhile the packers held firm to their announced policy of making no more agreements with their former employees and proceeded as usual to do what they asserted was a most satisfactory day's business

FREIGHT HANDLERS' STRIKE HALTED If the Freight Handlers' Union attempts enforce an order forbidding all members from handling consignments to and from the stock yards the action will be fought by the American Anti-Boycott Association, and the Federal authorities will be asked to intervene. Daniel Davenport, executive gent of the association, who arrived in hicago from Bridgeport, Conn., to-day, ade this assertion. The Freight Handlers' made this assertion. The Freight Handlers' order was adopted by its council and then suspended pending a call from President

To-day it was said by railroad officials hat there was little danger of the freight handlers taking sympathetic action at pres-

A trip through the various packing plants disproved the story that they are in an unsanitary condition as a result of the absence of the regular forces of union men. Dr. C. E. Dyson, head of the United States Government Bureau of Animal Industry, said that there was denote to rubble beside only that there was danger to public health only while the live stock handlers were out. The pens are in a good sanitary condition to-day. Concerning the plants themselves, Dr. Dy-

"While it is true that the packers are losing money on the by-products because of their inability to work them up to advantage, they are being properly disposed of and will not cause any ill health."

Any attempt which the strikers might make to shut off the food supply of the non-union help that is laboring in "Packingtown" would be futile. With the exception of such staple provisions as flour sugar and coffee, the packers have everyng within their province that is neces-y to sustain the lives of their laborers

In fact, union laborers may not know it, but refrigerator cars that are seen returning to the yards apparently empty eften contain provisions for the packers' help.

PITTSBURG KILLING ITS OWN BEEF.

PITTSBURG, July 29.—Almost every old-slaughter house in the vicinity of Pittsburg was opened to-day and is running full blast. Places which have not had any cattle killed for years have been brushed up, and to-night it is announced that pro-visions are now made for furnishing the million people within a few hours' ride of Pittsburg with home dressed beef and other meats. Many of the local dealers, angry meats. Many of the local dealers, angry at the alleged uncalled for raise in prices om Chicago, have announced their inten ion of holding to the home dressed beef

One thousand trikers met the negroes and barred the way to the packing house. Then through fear, more than anything else, a bunch of twelve or fifteen typical else, a bunch of twelve or fifteen typical plantation negroes turned back in the direc-tion of the mass of strikers. Calls Out Men To-night. A committee of the advisory board of the local unions of Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen called on First Vice-President and Secretary Weil of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company yesterday. They presented the ultimatum that unless by to-day this company and the Cudahy company have left the so called beef trust and made an independent agreement with the union, a general strike will be declared in this city to-night. The strike is to go into effect to-morrow, as Sunday is the day on which killing begins in this city. The of the slaughterhouses. Before the ultimatum was given the advisory board met for several hours at 827 First avenue, where telegrams which had passed between H. L. Eichelberger and President Donnelly were read. There was nothing to show that the firms had left the trust, or in fact that any conference to that end had taken place in Chicago, where it was supposed conferences were being held, and then the committee was appointed to submit the ulti-

Mr. Weil of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company would not commit himself on the subject of the conference in reference to the two firms getting out of the trust. He said he did not know what was going on in Chicago as his work lay in New York. He added: "I don't believe there will be a new strike

The only reason he would give for this belief was that the firms were living up to their agreement in this city. In this city the teamsters are in the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workmen, while in other cities they belong to the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. A strike ordered by the advisory board will therefore bring out the teamsters in the packing houses here.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Negotiations between the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Company and the union officials were declared at an end to-night and an order was issued by President Donnelly calling out all the men in the night house of the company.

The men in the New York plants of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Company and the United Dressed Beef Company have been allowed to work, President Donnelly said to-night, on the understanding that no killing should be done on Saturday, but that the men would not report for but that the men would not report for work Sunday morning.

OPERATORS WORK FOR PEACE. The Threatened Strike of Anthracite Miners May Be Averted.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 29 .- A coal operator stated this evening that the mining companies are moving to effect a settlement of the trouble over the check weighman and the check docking boss matter. He intimated that owing to the plans that are being formulated he does not think that the session of the executive board called for this city on Monday next will take any decided action.

The coal operators are astonished and somewhat dismayed because of the preparations that the miners are making to go on strike unless their demands are complied with. They did not expect a matter of no great importance to result in such a storm.
WILKESBARRE, July 29.—General Superintendent Warriner of the Lehigh Valley

intendent Warriner of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, who is a member of the board of conciliation, in an interview today laid much stress upon the fact that the last meeting of the board did not break up in a row and that it could be called together any time at the suggestion of any member. It is possible that there may be another meeting of the board before long. It is thought here that the statement will have the effect of bringing about further negotiations between the operators and miners and that the strike order which the executive board of district No. 1, United Mine Workers, threatens to issue at Scranton next Monday may be postponed.

ton next Monday may be postponed. So far as can be learned, however, it is not the intention of the representatives of the miners on the conciliation board to ask for another meeting of that body. If the board is called together in the near future it will have to be done by one of the representatives of the operators.

The representatives of the coal opera The representatives of the coal opera-tors on the conciliation board gave out a statement this afternoon which explains their side of the controversy with the min-ers over the check weighman and docking boss questions. In part the statement says:

"It should be clearly understood that the operators do not object to check weighmen in fact, many of them are in favor of the system. They are furthermore fully pre-pared to abide by the award of the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission in every re-spect, and to carry out any judicial decision of the Board of Conciliation or the findings of any umpire in any case properly sub mitted to him for decision.

The operators, however, do not believe it was contemplated by the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission that they should discharge such of their employees as do not desire to join with the majority of their fellows in the request for the appointment of the check weighpung. The miners themof the check weighman. The miners them-selves would strenuously oppose such a doctrine if applied against their wishes.

MYSTERY OF A YOUNG MAN SHOT IN CENTRAL PARK.

Initials S. L. D. on His Watch and Inquiry at Hospital for Mr. Dana-Writes to Woman in Hotel Martha Washington -Says Was Shot-Police Say Suicide.

A young man who is trying hard to conceal his identity, and who has, so far, succeeded, was found in Central Park yesterday morning suffering from a bullet wound. His name is believed to be S. L. Dana, and he now lies in the Presbyterian Hospital in a critical condition. The bullet wound in his right side, which the police think was self-inflicted, is pretty certain to end his life. Two persons might clear up the mystery enshrouding the young man's identity, but they were singularly reticent concerning him yesterday. One of these persons is a woman, the other a man. The woman is Mrs. B. W. Dignon, who lives in the Hotel

Martha Washington. The man is George F.

the legal department of the H. B. Claffin Company. The man with the bullet wound entered the Park at the Seventy-second street entrance on the East Side at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. Policeman Henry H. Anderega of the Park squad saw him come in that entrance. There was nothing about the stranger to attract more than passing notice. Anderega saw that he was a rather good looking chap and his appearance didn't show that he was laboring under any excitement. The policeman passed the man without taking a second glance at him and continued his patrolling.

The young man walked briskly toward the centre of the Park, and when Policeman Anderega reached a point about opposite Seventy-sixth street he heard a single pistol shot. The policeman looked about, but could not see anybody. Suspecting that the shot meant that a suicide had selected his post to end his life on, Anderega began to investigate.

He ran to the Ramble, where he met the young man he had seen enter the Park not more than four minutes before. The stranger looked just as unconcerned as when Anderega first saw him. "What's the trouble?" asked the cop, for the young man was the only one in sight. "Nothing," was the response

"Why, there is blood on your coat," said the policeman. "Why did you do it?" "I have not got a revolver," said the young man, coolly.

Anderega grabbed him and hurried him to the nearest entrance. On the way another policeman joined the pair and he sent in a call for an ambulance. While waiting for the ambulance Anderega questioned the young man. At first he was inclined to intimate that he had been shot by some one. Then he refused to discuss his injury at all.

He would not even tell his name or where he lived. When Dr. Brown of the Presbyterian Hospital arrived on an ambulance it made no change in his strange demeanor Within an hour after reaching the hospital he asked that a messenger be sent to him. Refore this was done the hospital authorities wanted to learn something about their patient for the hospital record.

A nurse tried to coax him into telling something about himself. He finally declared he was Frederick Coutory of 334 West Forty-eighth street and that his nearest friend was C. H. Henderson of 128 West Forty-second street. The nurse smiled when he gave this information and she turned around to go and report it to the

"Don't take the trouble to nvestigate hose names," said the man who gave them. Both are fictitious, but they will do good enough for your records."

With this frank admission the man began to clamor for a messenger boy. While awaiting the boy's arrival he busied him-self writing a note. When the messenger arrived he took the boy's name and number and cautioned him to be sure and de-liver his note to the person for whom it was ntended. The boy started off to deliver ne message. Meantime the Park police had become active over the shooting and when the messenger boy left the hospital Detective Little intercepted him. Little demanded to see the note the boy had. It was turned over to him and Little copied it. It read:

This may be my last letter. I was shot this morning and am in custody at Presbyterian Hospital, Seventieth street and Madison avenue. Can you make an excuse to my employers? Call them up and say I was called away. Don't give your name. They don't know me here and will never.

The note was addressed to "B. W Dignon, Hotel, Thirtieth street and Madison avenue." It was signed, but the signature was not decipherable to Little. After copying the note the detective let the mee copying the note the detective let the mes-senger boy deliver it.

The inference from the note was that some one had shot the writer of it. Little got Tompkins, Clark and Doran, the other Park detectives, and they went over the ground where the man had been in the park. They could find no evidence of a struggle and neither could they find the re-volver with which the man had been shot.

He could easily have thrown the revolver He could easily have thrown the revolver into the Park lake from where Policeman Anderega found him.

It did not take the detectives long to conclude that there was nothing in man's story of having been shot by one else. Policeman Anderega satisfied them of that, because he says positively that not more than four minutes elapsed from the time he first saw the man to the time he found him strolling around with the bullet wound. During that time there was not another person in that part of the

Satisfied that no more investigation wa needed on that end the detectives started in to learn the identity of the man. Little went to the hotel to which he had sent a note. He suspected that B. W. Dignon was a man and he was surprised when he found it was a woman. He saw Mrs. Dignon and says she is young and pretty. She positively refused to tell him anything about the injured man. She admitted she knew him, but that was all she would

Meantime Detectives Tompkins and Clark Meantime Detectives Tompkins and Clark were busy at the hospital. They examined the wounded man's clothing, but could not find any marks on his garments. He had no papers or money. He had a bunch of keys and a gold watch and chain. The watch was an openfaced one and on the back of it were the initials S. L. D. There was also in his pocket a card used in hotels to write names on. This was stamped with the Hoffman House stamp. This card did not prove of any service in establishing did not prove of any service in establishing

His watch was a good one and the chain was of roped gold. In the back of the watch was a small faded photograph of a woman holding a small dog in her arms. After seeing Mrs. Dignon, Detective Little declared the photograph bore a striking resemblance to her.

The initials on the watch were the only clew the police had to the name of the wounded man. They could only guess at the last name, until shortly before noon, when the hospital was called on the tele-phone and a man asked to know the con-dition of Mr. Dana. He was told that there was no patient there by that name, and

The police accepted this tip as the correct name of the man who had succeeded in enshrouding himself in so much mystery. Nevertheless, they kept on trying to verify it. They even took his hat, a black alpine, to the Broadway hatter where he had purchased it on June 1. S. L. D. were the initials drilled into the leather hatband. This hatband bore the name of a dealer in Marshall, Tex., who is an agent of the New York hatter. The local hatter showed it was bought here but he could not turn up the record of the purchase.

At the Martha Washington Mrs. Dignon soon became a much sought after person. She left word for all inquirers that George She left word for all inquirers that George F. Cornwell was her lawyer and that if there was any talking to be done he would do it for her. Cornwell was just as reticent as Mrs. Dignon. He would only say:

MUSCIANS FEAR LAWSUITS. Protective Union Liable for Damages

-May Form Union for Strikes Only. All differences between the Theatrical Managers' Association and the Musical Mutual Protective Union have been definitely settled. The two points on which the committees of the union and the managers found it most difficult to agree were adjusted vesterday. These were the question of substitutes and of pay for rehearsals on Sundays. The substitute question is to be left to the orchestra leaders. Rehearsals on Sunday are not to be paid for unless they extend beyond a specified number of hours, double wages to be paid for the extra hours. Since the negotiations began the union has realized that as it is incorporated under the laws of this State it can be sued for damages for breach of contract if its members strike. This fact came out promi-nently recently when the Central Federated Union called on its members in the orchestra at Dreamland, Coney Island, to strike beterian Hospital arrived on an ambulance he wouldn't disclose his identity to him. This meeting was to have been held yesterday, but it has been postponed to Aug. 4.

In the meantime a committee, appointed to get legal advice as to what could be done in the matter of strikes, reported that the charter of the union could not be made to conform legally with the rules and mandates of the American Enderation of Musicians. of the American Federation of Musicians. This committee will recommend at the coming meeting that the members form a new union for trades union purposes, with a charter from the Federation, the M. M. P. U. to remain as it is. This will be virtually a union within a union.

TO EXTEND SUBWAY STRIKE. Threatened Lockout of 20,000 Men Apparently Not Heeded.

The strike in the subway was still on yesterday, and late last night Philip Weinseimer, president of the Building Trades Alliance, announced that the strike will be extended to the carpenters and painters in the power house to-day. In the meantime the Brotherhood of Painters and the Amalgamated Painters' Society, whose quarrel caused the strike, have called a mass meeting for next week to amalgamate.

Representatives of the Master Carpenters' Association and the Brotherhood of Carpenters had a conference at the Building Trades Club over the strike yesterday, and the matter was left to the general arbi-tration board of the Building Trades Employers' Association.

The unions which are threatened with a general lockout on account of the subway strike through violation of the arbitration agreement of the Building Trades Employ-ers' Association are the plumbers, plas-terers, painters and carpenters. They have an aggregate of 20,000 members.

Of the eleven classes judged this afternoon, the two main attractions were the contest for the challenge cup and the racing class for fours. Albert De Cernea, with Sporting News, won the former and Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt the latter. There were three pairs in the racing class, the reins being held by Jack Donnelly over the Lewisohn pair, Mr. Vanderbilt and Henry J. Braker driving their own horses. The Lewisohn pair entered first, making the seven miles from Sea Bright to Hollywood in 23 minutes 45 seconds. The Vanderbilt pair was second in 25 minutes and the Braker pair third in 27 minutes. The condition of the Vanderbilt grays on arriving was the best and they got the blue. Mr. Braker re-reived the red.

MT, YERNON "TRACY" CAUGHT

A PROMINENT FAMILY.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., July 29 .- A man who is thought to be the desperate highwayman who is believed to have robbed half a dozen houses and to have shot Detective Michael Reilly of the Mount Vernon police was captured in a freight car on the Harlem Railroad, near the Tuckahoe station, to-day. The man drew his revolver on James Quinn, a brakeman, who discovered his hiding place, but he was weak from hunger and exhaustion. Before he could use the weapon Quinn knocked i from his hand and gave him a kick, which took all the fight out of him. The train crew guarded the prostrate highwayman until the Mount Vernon police arrived and took charge of him.

He is a tall, intelligent looking man, about 36 years old. When arraigned be fore Sergt. Clarke at the Mount Vernon police headquarters he refused to give his name and address.

"You can put down any name you choose I'm a poor outcast soldier, bred of good parentage, and I fought for my country. When I sought honest labor I was turned down continually. I was driven to this. You have captured me and I'm guilty, so what's the use of dragging the names of my innocent relatives into the case. I can stand up and take my medicine. So far as my folks are concerned I am supposed

The policemen who searched the footpad found only a photograph of his sweetheart and a part of Tennyson's "Idyls of the King." When the officers found the photograph the prisoner said: "Please don't take that away from me. She's the only friend I have left." There was a tremor in the highwayman's voice as he spoke these words and those present were convinced that he meant it. The picture was of a woman about 25 years old. It was taken by Fichtel, 126 Bergenline avenue, Union Hill, N. J.

"What's her name?" inquired one of the patrolmen.

the reply. Chief Foley hopes to ascertain the prisoner's name and his connection through the picture of his sweetheart.

The prisoner is charged with attempted murder. He will also be charged with holding up Paul Belger, treasurer of Columbia Hose Company; attempting to shoot Sergt. Walter J. Grant and Patrolman Thistleton, and robbing the home of John Olsen of Bronxville. While being brought to Mount Vernon the highwayman talked

"I'm 28 year old and my parents are Americans," said he. "I come from fighting stock. My grandfather was a soldier, and every generation since has had a soldier. My trouble started when a boy. My parents are wealthy and prominent, and although they have disowned me I'm not cur enough to disgrace them. If I should tell you who my folks are probably you would not feel so sore on me.

"When I was a young lad I was one of the boys. I took a drink occasionally, but was never drunk in my life. My relatives took exception to my drinking and the company it brought me into. They managed me until I became discouraged and, running away from home, enlisted in the Regular army. I fought in Cuba and the Philippines. When the fighting Ninth Regiment was ordered from the Philippines to China I went along as first sergeant. I was near Col. Liscome when he fell.

"After serving six years in the army I was mustered out. That was five months ago. I came to New York and tried to get work. I didn't want to go near my folks, because I am too proud. I tried everywhere to get work, but failed. My money gave out and then I became desperate. I tried to get a job as a laborer on the subway in New York a week ago, but an Irish foreman engaged two Italians and let me

The other morning I went to a back and asked for something to eat, but the door was slammed in my face. I tried three other places with the same result.

"From that moment I turned highwayrobbed several people. I held man. I robbed several people. I held them up at the point of a revolver and took them up at the point of a revolver and took their valuables. I only wanted the money to get food with. Finally I became ashamed of myself. I decided that I would again try to lead an honest life, so I jumped on a freight train and started for Boston to enlist in the army. At Mount Vernon I was put off the train, and, being without money, decided to turn footpad again to get something to eat. I stopped a man on a bridge in Mount Vernon and got some small change. The following night I walked into a saloon to get a drink and a big man followed me in. After I left the saloon he came out, and tapping me on the shoulder said: 'I want you, pardner. I'm an officer and you are the description of a fellow that I am looking for.' I whipped out my revolver and fired.

I had to. I was without food and water and was afraid to move for fear I would be detected. That night I waded the river and robbed a house. I didn't want anything but food. I stole a lunch basket, but it was empty. There I was scared away before I could get my shoes on. This placed in me in a worse position than be-

I asked the engineer to give me a ride to New York, and he said he would. I jumped into a box car thinking that this was my chance of escape. I have learned since that the engineer had been reading about me in the papers and, seeing me without shoes, became suspicious. He only gave me a ride so that he could notify the police. When he neared Tuckahoe he blew his whistle and told a little boy to call the police. He did as he was told, and here I am, with life imprisonment staring me in the face." imprisonment staring me in the face."

LOOKING FOR THE BAYONET. Companions of Murdered Artilleryman Hammett Also in Demand.

Coroner O'Gorman attempted yesterday to find the weapon which killed Private P. Hammett of Fort Schuyler, whose body was found floating in West Chester Creek on Thursday with a deep stab wound The Coroner believes that the wound was made with a bayonet.

The Coroner is looking for the civilians with whom Hammett was drinking on Monday night at Krumsiek's Hotel in West Chester. It was learned yesterday that Hammett quarrelled with one of them over a woman who was in the room at the over a woman who was in the room at the time. The Coroner says that Hammett must have had more than one assailant.

The police found a glass case full of old revolvers, bayonets and knives in the barroom in which Hammett had been drinking. As far as could be discovered the case was not opened the night of the murder. The weapons were said to have belonged to August Krumsiek, a son of the proprietor of the hotel, who was killed on the Bowery about a year ago.

M'ADOO TO THE NEW COPS. Assures Each of the 160 That He Owes His Appointment to Merit, Not to Pull.

The 160 new policemen recently appointed v Commissioner McAdoo were sworn in yesterday in the trial room at Police Headquarters. After they had taken the oath Mr. McAdoo made a little speech in which he said:

"It is a great pleasure to greet such a body of men. You owe your appointments to no man. I took your names from the eligible list without skipping a name.
"If I thought that any one of you had given so much as a cigar to get the appointment I would erase the name. Be attentive and polite in your new duties that the law is not respected by any one if not impartially enforced."

The new men will be assigned to duty as soon as they have had the necessary schooling. The Commissioner has asked
